Making a complaint

1. Who Can Make A Complaint

Anyone can raise a concern or lodge a complaint. We encourage children, families, community members and staff to raise any concerns or complaints they have. Anonymous complaints can be made but our ability to investigate them may be hampered as a result.

Complaints and concerns can be made in any way that feels comfortable - for example, over the telephone, by email or in person. We will facilitate different ways of making complaints for people who have diverse backgrounds or needs for support. This means you can ask anyone at our service for help to make a complaint.

2. Who To Make The Complaint To

- Minor complaints that can be easily solved can be raised directly with the person concerned. Both parties can try to resolve the issue and develop solutions to ensure the problem does not happen again. Discussions should remain private, confidential, respectful and open-minded. They should not involve other staff or visitors (e.g., parents) and should take place away from children
- Complaints that can't be resolved directly with the person concerned (for whatever reason) can be raised directly (or indirectly through another member of staff) with a more senior staff member, the nominated supervisor or the approved provider
- Complaints that relate to the harm or risk of harm to a child, or criminal or unlawful activity, should be reported to Mandatory Reporting Service or the police, and the Nominated Supervisor
- Whistleblowers can contact the confidential whistleblower hotline, STOPLine on 1300 304 550, in accordance with our Whistleblower Policy

3. Contacts

Receiving A Complaint

1. Receiving a complaint about harm or the risk of harm to a child

If the complaint or concern is about harm or the risk of harm to a child, including any complaints that allege a child is exhibiting harmful sexual behaviours, we will follow our Child Protection Policy and Procedures, which sets out our obligations and systems for:

- Recording and managing incidents, suspicions or disclosures of harm or risk of harm
- Managing harmful sexual behaviour in children
- Making a report - we have obligations under the law to report certain child safety and well-being matters to the authorities (e.g., to the police and Mandatory Reporting Service, the education and care services regulatory authority, under reportable conduct schemes)

2. Receiving a complaint involving an allegation of reportable conduct

If we receive an allegation of reportable conduct, we will follow our Child Protection Policy and Procedures, which includes information on:

- Notifying the agency responsible for administering the Reportable Conduct Scheme
- Conducting investigations
- Providing reports and taking action in response to any findings

3. Receiving other complaints

All other complaints we receive will be recorded. We record the following information:

- The contact details of the person making the complaint

- Details about the complaint (e.g., the nature, dates/times, people involved, notes on verbal discussions, written correspondence)
- Notes on how people want the problem to be resolved and any support that might be needed for the people involved

Complaints will be passed on to the Nominated Supervisor as soon as practicable.

4. Acknowledging the complaint

The Nominated Supervisor will acknowledge the complaint within 24 hours of receiving it and provide the person who made the complaint with a contact point, idea of likely timeframes and the next steps that will be taken. This may be done by phone, in person or in writing - whichever is the most appropriate method.

Assessing And Investigating A Complaint

1. Investigating complaints about harm or risk of harm to a child

Our service will not investigate any child protection matters unless instructed to do so by the relevant authorities. We will follow our Child Protection Policy and Procedures if the investigation relates to harm or risk of harm to a child, including allegations that a child is exhibiting harmful sexual behaviours.

2. Investigating complaints involving reportable conduct

There are strict rules for investigating allegations of reportable conduct under the Reportable Conduct Scheme. If we are required to investigate such an allegation, we will follow our Child Protection Policy and Procedures, which outlines how we need to investigate and report on such allegations.

3. Managing investigations

Any investigations conducted by our service will be managed by the Nominated Supervisor, who will also be responsible for giving regular updates on the progress of the investigation to everyone involved in the complaint. The Nominated Supervisor have the option to appoint someone else to conduct the investigation, including people outside our service.

4. Initial assessment

Although the steps involved will vary according to the nature of the complaint or concern, where appropriate, we will conduct an initial assessment, considering:

- Whether a formal investigation is required (for example, it may not be warranted if the complaint arose because of a minor misunderstanding or something that can be easily resolved to the satisfaction of everyone involved)
- Whether the complaint is outside our service's area of responsibility, i.e. should be directed to another organisation
- Whether other people/organisations are involved in the matter
- How feasible the suggested solution is
- The severity, urgency and complexity
- How to ensure everyone involved is safe (risk management)
- How to ensure the integrity of the investigation that will follow
- The impact on the person complaining, and anyone else involved
- Whether the problem might escalate

If the Nominated Supervisor decides not to proceed with the investigation after initial enquiries, they will give the person making the complaint the reason/s in writing or whatever form is the most appropriate.

5. Formal investigation

Where appropriate and necessary, the Nominated Supervisor will conduct a formal investigation. The investigation will be:

- Impartial - we manage all perceived and actual conflicts of interest and have an open mind about the evidence. The findings will be objective
- Confidential - except where we are required to disclose personal information because it is relevant to the safety and well-being of a child, we investigate complaints in private and respect all parties' confidentiality. Note, there are safeguards in place for people who report about child protection matters (see our Child Protection Policy)
- Transparent - we tell the person making the complaint and the subject of the complaint what the investigation will involve. All parties will be invited to provide information and respond where appropriate. We will provide regular updates on the progress of the investigation
- Thorough - we look at all the circumstances and facts, gather and assess evidence
- Supportive - we invite everyone involved to have a support person present during an interview (e.g., to support culturally safe practices or a health and safety representative - but not a lawyer acting in a professional capacity); employees are encouraged to seek support from their union, if applicable
- Timely - we aim to provide a resolution in a reasonable period of time
- Professional - we uphold all our employment law obligations and practice best practice records management
- Conducted safely – to protect the safety and wellbeing of children and staff
- Compliant with the law

6. Risk management

The Nominated Supervisor will consider and manage any risks to the safety and well-being of any children or adults involved in an investigation, in line with our Child Safe Risk Management Plan and Child Protection Policy and Procedures

7. Investigation report

After analysing the evidence, the Nominated Supervisor will prepare an investigation report which describes the process and findings of the investigation.

Resolving a complaint

1. Making decisions about complaints

The Nominated Supervisor will decide on a course of action to resolve a complaint (on the advice of the relevant authorities if the matter relates to a child protection matter).

Outcomes might be, for example: providing professional development support/training for staff; mediation; making changes to physical and online environments, adjustments to our practices, systems, policies or procedures; implementing safety and behavioural management plans for children; performance management for staff; referrals to support services; formal staff warnings, changes of duties or termination of employment.

In deciding the resolution, the Nominated Supervisor will consider:

- Any advice from relevant authorities (e.g., police, child protection authority, support services)
- Our obligations under employment law, industrial relations principles and guidelines
- Any submissions from the subject of the complaint (see procedural fairness below)
- The number of complaints against the subject of the complaint
- The number of opportunities already given to subject of the complaint person to adhere to a policy or procedure and/or change behaviour
- The seriousness of the complaint and whether it impacted the safety and welfare of children, other employees, volunteers, students or families
- Whether the complaint is reasonable

2. Procedural fairness

The Nominated Supervisor will give the subject of the complaint a fair hearing before making a decision that might adversely affect the subject's rights or interests.

The Nominated Supervisor will provide the subject of a complaint with:

- Opportunities to make submissions when there are informed: that they are the subject of an investigation; of any proposed adverse finding; and of any proposed action to be taken as a result of a finding
- Information about the investigation and reasons for their findings
- An explanation/justification for the decisions made and the proposed course of action
- A fair opportunity to directly address the issues

The Nominated Supervisor genuinely consider the person's responses and submissions with an open-mind and impartiality. They will make reasonable inquiries before making a decision.

3. Communicating the decision

The Nominated Supervisor will advise everyone who is involved of the result of the investigation and the resolution in writing and/or verbally.

4. Challenging the decision

If the person making the complaint or the subject of the complaint does not agree with the outcome of the investigation and/or the resolution, they can request a review. They will need to provide reasons for why they think either the investigation or resolution is wrong.

The Nominated Supervisor will consider their reasons and, depending on the circumstances, may either:

- Decide that an investigation or a change to the resolution is not warranted
- Re-investigate the complaint and/or provide an alternative resolution
- Offer an external review by a Tribunal or alternate organisation, where employees, visitors and volunteers are unhappy with the outcome. Workplace bullying matters may be referred to the Fair Work Commission which can direct employers to take specific actions against workplace bullies or the Work Health and Safety (WHS) Regulator, which may investigate whether WHS duties have been contravened
- Offer information about alternative complaint resolution options, such as through the regulatory authority or ombudsman

Records And Confidentiality

1. Creating and keeping accurate records

The Nominated Supervisor will create and retain accurate records related to concerns and complaints, in line with our record keeping and privacy policies and obligations.

Records may include correspondence, emails, phone calls, interview transcripts, incident reports, risk management plans, investigation reports and findings, decision making process, minutes from meetings, notes, submissions from those involved, reports to police or government authorities.

2. Maintaining confidentiality

We keep information our service gathers for a complaint and investigation confidential and only disclose it if we are obliged, for example, to ensure:

- Workplace safety
- The safety and well-being of a child (see our Child Protection Policy for more information)
- The natural justice for the person accused

We follow directions about confidentiality from the relevant authorities and ensure we comply with all relevant legislation. Anyone involved in complaint or investigation must maintain confidentiality. A failure to do so by staff, volunteers or students may result in disciplinary action. Online records will be stored password protected file and physical records in a secure cabinet. Access will only be granted on a 'need to know' basis.

We follow our Child Protection Policy's guidance on record keeping for child protection matters - including on safeguards for reporters of harm or risk of harm to a child.
